Contents

1 Local water independency ratio (LWIR) as an index to define the sustainability of major cities in Asia  M. Han and S. Kim

25 Variation of biofilm formation on distribution pipe depending on water treatment processes and pipe materials  J.E. Shin, M.J. Jang, J.Y. Koo, S.K. Ahn and M.J. Yu

37 CFD modelling of floc transport and coating layer build-up in single UF/MF membrane capillaries driven in inside-out mode  A. Lerch, W. Uhl and R. Gimbel

49 Water demand management – shifting urban water management towards sustainability  S. Kayaga, I. Smout and H. Al-Maskati

57 Identification of opportunities to improve efficiency by water consumption assessment  S.L. Diáš., H. Lucas, M. do Céu Almeida, H. Alegre, M. Vriato and D. Loureiro

65 Treatment of acidic water from Bekok River using open limestone channel  A. Aris, N. Mokhtar, R. Muslim, Z. Ujang and Z. A-Majid

73 Impact of exotic invasive species in the cooling network of the Cartuja’93 technological park (Seville)  C. Escot, A. Basanta and A. Diaz

79 Effect of municipal sewage on chemical build-up in soils and vegetables  R. Malla, K. Mori and K.L. Totawat

87 Overcoming the drawbacks of natural coagulants for drinking water treatment  K. Ghebremichael

95 Effect of axial variation of flux on filtration characteristics of hollow fiber membrane for drinking water treatment  Hyun-je Oh, June-Seok Choi, Byong-Bo Choi, Sangho Lee and Tae-Mun Hwang

103 Strategies to close water supply and demand gap  Gustaf Olsson

111 Modeling the impact of permeate flux and hydrodynamic conditions on fouling in submerged hollow fiber membranes  H. Lin and P.R. Berube

119 The effect of tariff on water demand management: implications for Bahrain  M. Smith and H. Al-Maskati

127 Removal of fuel oxygenates by advanced oxidation processes  Ch. Baus, M. Sona and H.-J. Brauch
